

Assisted Living Residence Criteria

Residents of Assisted Living must continue to meet the following criteria:

- Consistent ability to transfer / transport safely and independently (history of falls is considered)
- Independent management of any incontinence; willing and able to participate in recommended management processes
- Independent ability to exit the building within the 5 minute time frame required for evacuation (assistive devices / motorized scooters allowed in this definition of independence)
- Any difficulty thinking and poor judgement are manageable within the Assisted Living environment
- Willing to participate in physician or licensed staff recommended treatment in order to sustain the health and safety of self and others
- Schowalter Villa Assisted Living remains able to meet the resident's needs supporting the resident's physical, mental, emotional, and social well-being
- Payment of monthly fees and charges by the tenth (10th) of the month for care and services provided

Reviewed April 2018